2006 SUNY CORTLAND Commencement

UNDERGRADUATE CEREMONIES • SATURDAY MAY 20, 2006

ALMA MATER

*By lofty elm trees shaded round,
Tioughnioga near,
Our grand old Cortland College stands,
To all of us how dear!
We'll sing to thee, dear Alma Mater,
Of love that shall never die,
We'll strive for thy glory eternal,
Keep thy stainless honor high.
Inspiring each son and each daughter
The noblest aims to try,
All thy fame and thy spirit,
Thy might are ours
As the swift years hurry by.*

WELCOME

The president, College Council, faculty, alumni and graduates of the State University of New York College at Cortland are honored by your presence at the

HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENT AND SPEAKER: PETER FINE

CEREMONY A — 9:30 A.M.

Peter Fine, a humanitarian and one of the largest developers of affordable housing in New York City, will receive an honorary doctor of humane letters from the State University of New York at today's Undergraduate Commencement ceremonies.

In 1996, Fine created Atlantic Development Group to build, own and manage apartment houses in metropolitan New York. During the past decade, his company has completed more than 3,500 assisted living, luxury and affordable housing units in 30 different buildings.

Currently, Fine's company is constructing more than 1,800 housing units which will be phased in between now and 2007 with an additional 1,000-plus housing units slated to begin this year. Beyond the housing market, Atlantic Development Group will start construction this year on Boricua College, a 120,000 square-foot building located at 161st St. and 3rd Avenue in the Bronx.

The son of a Manhattan and Brooklyn cab driver, Fine grew up in a public housing project in Queens and was educated in New York City's public schools.

"Education was very, very important to my father because he didn't have one," said Fine, who was the first in his family to attend college. "But he was a tremendously inquisitive guy. Reading The New York Times for him every day was a very important thing. Cab drivers in those days were the ambassadors in the city. I think he took that role seriously. In many respects, I consider what I do in real estate to be a continuation of my father's work."

Fine began his college education at SUNY Cortland as biology major, but soon discovered his exceptional aptitude for the social sciences while earning excellent grades in sociology, cultural anthropology and cultural geography.

"Having access to the language of social science enabled me to have some perspective on the way I grew up," Fine explained. "A liberal arts education should be about gaining self-knowledge and opening up the world. Without sounding corny, that was the initial effect of taking humanities, literature, social science and economics courses. I was so thirsty for the knowledge."

Longing to return to New York City, Fine transferred to New York University, where he earned a bachelor's degree and a Ph.D. in sociology.

From 1986-91, Fine worked for a social service agency on New York's Lower East Side called the Educational Alliance, which was an old settlement house that was part of the original settlement house movement in the 1880s. Also, for two years, he helped to settle Russian refugees for the Metropolitan Council on Jewish Poverty.

"In my resettlement work and with the Alliance, I had gotten involved in developing some housing as an executive of these non-profit institutions," noted Fine, who left the Alliance in 1991 to form his own firm, Fine Consulting and Development. His clients included not-for-profit organizations and social service institutions that wanted to build service-enriched housing, such as residential treatment facilities for mentally ill persons and homeless shelters. In all, he served as a consultant on 12 different treatment facilities.

"It was during this period that I realized how essential decent and affordable housing was to the stability of the clients I was working with, as well as for the health of the city and the state," said Fine, who then formed Atlantic Development Group which has emerged as one of the largest housing developers in New York City.

The civic-minded Fine has been deeply involved in philanthropic and charitable work. He serves on the board of directors for the UJA/Federation of New York, the Hispanic Federation, the Jewish Community Center of New York and The Rodeph Shalom School.

In February 2003 during the Campaign for Cortland, Fine committed $100,000 to SUNY Cortland to create the Robert Fine Faculty Endowment Fund in memory of his late father.

"It's an American story," he explained. "One generation kind of picks up where the other leaves off. I think he certainly saw it that way."

The Robert Fine Faculty and Endowment Fund benefits junior, untenured SUNY Cortland faculty in need of financial support to improve teaching techniques, enhance their classroom experience, support research and publication efforts and provide faculty-student interactions beyond the classroom.

"I wanted the money to ultimately help the College, faculty and the students and to just open up opportunities for them," said Fine. "That's really the key and that's the role that Cortland played for me. College is like a gateway. That's the way I see it."

Fine and his wife, Elizabeth, reside in Manhattan with their three children, Sarah, Robby and Katie.

HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENT AND SPEAKER: MARK GINSBERG '75

CEREMONY B – 2:30 P.M

Mark Ginsberg, the executive director of the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC) in Washington, D.C., will receive an honorary doctor of humane letters from the State University of New York at today's Undergraduate Commencement ceremonies.

Since 1998, Ginsberg has directed the NAEYC, the world's largest organization with a focus on young children and their families. Now in its 80th year, the NAEYC, with more than 100,000 members, greatly influences how America interacts with its 13 million children between birth and the age of four.

Working with a 17-member national board, Ginsberg oversees a staff of 125 persons, including the governmental relations personnel, who are housed in three buildings within the District of Columbia.

"I think we have had a hand in almost every piece of federal legislation that's positively affecting the lives of young children," said Ginsberg. "How much of a hand would vary depending upon the legislation. We spend a fair amount of time working with members of Congress and their staffs."

NAEYC's national network encompasses 300 local, state and regional organizations and a growing global alliance of like-minded professional groups. The national organization's annual four-day conference attracts some 25,000 people to 1,100 workshops and seminars and 300,000 square feet of exhibits.

For the past two decades, the NAEYC has been the nation's foremost accrediting agency for childcare centers. The NAEYC is also one of the world's largest publishers of educational materials for young children.

Raised in New City, N.Y., Ginsberg earned a bachelor's degree in psychology in 1975 from SUNY Cortland, where he was active as one of the first residence advisors in the then-newly built Towers halls, as director of the WSUC-AM campus radio station and as a rugby player.

Desiring to do something with children and families, Ginsberg attended Pennsylvania State University, where he earned a Ph.D. in human development and family studies. He interned at the Yale University School of Medicine in New Haven, Conn., and then joined the psychology faculty at the University of Rochester.

Ginsberg moved to Maryland and worked as a staff member with the American Psychological Association for six years before becoming the CEO for the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy (AAMFT), where he doubled the size of the organization during his tenure.

"I wanted to get back to my roots at an academic institution," he said. "I had the opportunity to join Johns Hopkins as the director of the Faculty and Staff Assistance Program, which is really the mental health and human services program for the university. Hopkins is the largest private employer in Maryland."

While at Johns Hopkins, Ginsberg began teaching in the Counseling Department and then served as its chair for two years. He still remains a part-time faculty member in the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences, but reluctantly chose to leave the classroom for the opportunity to guide the prestigious and influential NAEYC.

"Our work is so fundamentally important to the future of our nation. The challenge is to be sure we have the resources, the ability to continue to be creative and inventive, and to help move this forward," he said.

Ginsberg's own dream is to realize a national goal to fully fund an early childhood educational system that provides universal access for all children.

"To me, one of the great ironies is that Americans are viewed internationally as the thought leaders when it comes to information about education, but tragically we're not found anywhere near the top of the list of people who are practitioners," he said. "We just don't practice what we preach. The lesson in that is that we know how to do this, we just don't have the funds to do it."

Two other challenges facing the early childhood field today are insufficient numbers of educators with solid training in early childhood education and a tremendous educator turnover rate, said Ginsberg, whose organization lobbies for adequate teacher funding.

"Economic studies that have been done suggest that for every dollar spent in an early childhood environment, there's a seven dollar return in terms of economic benefit to a community over time," he explained. "That's a pretty good rate of return. Studies show that children who are in high-quality environments when they are three are more likely to succeed when they're six. But more than that, there are studies now that are showing that throughout their lives, children who had a good foundation earlier in their life are more likely to succeed."

Ginsberg and his wife, Elaine, have two sons, Andrew and Robert.

CANDIDATES FOR BACHELOR'S DEGREES

Candidates for bachelor's degrees listed on the following pages completed their degree requirements in December 2005 or May 2006 or are expected to complete their requirements in August or December 2006.

Because the names of the graduates and honors recipients presented in this program must be compiled in advance of Commencement, the information is not official and is subject to revision as may be mandated by satisfaction of degree requirements and of academic grades.

Graduation With Honors

Honors awarded to candidates for the bachelor's degrees as listed in this program are based on grade point averages recorded as of Feb. 1, 2006. Candidates who receive honors wear colored tassels as noted below. Honors are awarded when grade point averages meet the following standards on a scale of 4.0:

* Cum Laude	3.2 to 3.499	White Tassel
 Magna Cum Laude	3.5 to 3.749	Red and White Tassel
 Summa Cum Laude	3.75 and above	Red Tassel

Dual Majors

A plus sign (+) after a name indicates that the student is graduating with a dual major.

ACADEMIC HERALDRY

ACADEMIC PROCESSION The processional begins with the all-college gonfalonier, who leads in the faculty, followed by the Schools of Arts and Sciences, Education and Professional Studies gonfaloniers, who lead in the students. The processional concludes when the mace bearer brings in the platform party, which consists of members of the College's administration and faculty leadership, the College Council, visiting dignitaries and honorees.

THE MACE The mace is a ceremonial staff used as a symbol of authority. The mace bearer precedes the platform party and places the mace on a special stand where it remains while the official proceedings of Commencement are under way. SUNY Cortland's mace, the "Torch of Learning," is made of silver and rosewood and was created by local silversmith John Marshall.

THE GONFALONS The four bright banners carried in the academic procession are called gonfalons. The red, white, black and grey gonfalon represents the College; in blue, grey and burgundy it represents the School of Arts and Sciences; in blue, purple and black it represents the School of Education; and in peach and green it represents the School of Professional Studies.

The gonfalons were designed by Libby Kowalski, professor emerita of art and art history, and Kathy Maher, a 1984 SUNY Cortland graduate. The standards were made by Bard Prentiss, associate professor emeritus of art and art history, and J. Eric Kroot. Materials were provided by the Gilbert and Mary Cahill Foundation and the late Rozanne M. Brooks, distinguished teaching professor emerita of sociology/anthropology.

REGALIA Commencement lends itself to the pageantry of an academic procession rooted in medieval times. The gowns and hoods worn by faculty members, candidates for graduation and platform dignitaries distinguish the institution from which the wearer was or will be graduated, the level of the degree earned and the field of learning.

In 1985, American colleges established a standard code of academic dress, specifying three types of gowns. The gown for the bachelor's degree has pointed sleeves, the gown for the master's degree has an oblong sleeve with the front part cut in an arc, and the gown for the doctoral degree has bell-shaped sleeves. The doctoral gown is also trimmed in velvet. The hood's inner lining, which folds out at the back and center, indicates the colors of the institution granting the degree, while the border, which comes around to the front of the neck, represents the field of learning.

The black mortarboard cap is standard. Its only distinguishing feature is a gold tassel worn by holders of the doctoral degree.

THE HONORS MEDALLION The graduates wearing silver medallions with red ribbons have completed the SUNY Cortland Honors Program. To complete the Honors Program, a student must take 24 credit hours of honors courses, engage in 40 hours of community service, maintain a cumulative grade point average of 3.2, and complete an honors thesis during his or her senior year.

THE KENTE STOLE The Kente stole is a rich, multicolored, handwoven style of cloth that originated in Ghana, West Africa, and is revered throughout the Africana World. It is traditionally worn during important national ceremonies. The colors, patterns and ideogramatic images of the Kente stole impart information about the wearer and highlight the importance of an event or a ceremony. Similar to the academic hood, the Kente stole is relatively new to commencement ceremonies in the United States and signifies and symbolizes higher education's connection to the rich cultures, intellectual traditions and academic achievements of the Africana World.

SPECIAL PERSON DESIGNATION All graduates can designate a special person who has been instrumental in helping them achieve their higher education goals. This individual's name is read along with the graduate's name as he or she walks across the stage at the Commencement ceremony. Students who choose to name a special person do so when they apply online for their degree.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT FLAGS Graduating international students present their national flag to the president during the Commencement ceremony. In the past, flags representing China, Japan and Nepal were received. During the Commencement ceremony, the flags are displayed on stage and afterward, they are exhibited in the lobby of Corey Union.
